

When You Start To Enrich Your Life...

Have you ever heard someone say, "Stop doing that. You are making us look bad."?

Have you ever heard someone say, "He/she is just trying to show off," when that person wasn't trying to show off but, he/she was just trying their best or trying to improve?

Why would someone hate or ridicule that you are improving your life?

Joke: There is no use in being pessimistic. It probably won't work anyway.

Kat Williams says, "If you don't have a bunch of haters, you are not doing anything with you life."

How does it feel when someone praises you for improving your life?

Why is it easier to improve in a group?