

Hi. Welcome to Life Enrichment topics with a few tools.

Before you start improving or enriching you life, there are a few things you should know. This is a warning, a disclaimer.

When you start to enrich your life, most people will hate that you are improving your life. Most people will ridicule that you are improving your life. Most people will want to be better than you but will not want to do any work to be better than you so, they will try to bring you down to a level below them. Don't let this stop you. Enrich your life anyway.

A few people will be glad that you are enriching your life, will praise you for it and will want to enrich their lives with you. These are the people to value and, to try to keep in your circle of friends.

It is difficult to enrich your life when you are the only one doing it. It is difficult to think, "Why am I the only one I know who is improving? Am I so different?" It is easier when people around you are enriching and improving their lives also. Then, you have people to talk to about Life Enrichment and, to share life improvement with.